A Love of Learning

Everyone has a love of learning, especially children, whose natural curiosity causes them to continually ask that question “Why?” So, ‘why’ do we feel that many children just don’t want to learn..and many of them will tell you “I don’t want to learn”.

Ignore that statement! And discover ways to engage their interest and they will want to learn more. Children can find a game challenging on the internet. Many of them can play for hours, perfecting their technique, and at every stage they are learning. Make it useful and valuable by finding out what engages their interest and transfer this to reading and writing. Children love to learn through play, through excursions in nature and through experiences. School work can be made more interesting if you take the time to be inventive in the ways you encourage them to learn.

Once you have captured their attention with a subject that interests them, then it is easier to get them to read and write about the subject and this leads on to new discoveries, such as the enjoyment of reading and researching more.

Learn how to cook healthy whole-foods at home with friends.

No longer do you have to go out for a workshop, Marcea Klein will come to your home. So gather your friends and enjoy this wonderful experience of inspirational organic wholefood cooking.

“Cook from the heart with joy!”
Marcea

In the privacy of your home, you can ask Marcea all the questions you wish, and she can speak from her extensive knowledge of working with sustainable wholefoods cuisine for over 30 years. Marcea is the author of 7 books, she is a food coach, consultant and has been teaching cooking for many years. Learn quick tips and how to renew, refresh and restock your pantry.

If you prefer to attend a workshop, there are 4 more left for this year. For details of home cooking and workshops click here

Spring is here...enjoy the sun and go out and play.

Warm wishes, Judith

•Clever •Cid Health & Play Program

What is the •Clever •Cid Program?

This is an environmental health & play program developed to improve children's learning abilities and overall wellbeing. The children create a vegetable garden and play games that build confidence and self esteem.

How does it help your child?

•Clever •Cid releases stress and brings an awareness of the environmental elements. Focus is on nutrition, oxygenation, hydration and the growth of plants is linked to the growth of the children. Through caring for the plants and being involved in the activities, the children become caring, calm, focused and able to concentrate on their work.

How can my child be involved?

Firstly, through your child's school. The program is for Kindy-Yr2 children and other programs are available for older children.

Secondly, you can speak to us and we can contact your school. We can send all the details to you or to the school. Find out if your school is eligible for a program and resource kit sponsored by Cross City Tunnel contact us.

Thirdly, simply call us direct and we can discuss your needs within schools, pre-schools, after school and vacation care. We can tailor or programs to suit.

Why my child should participate?

Regardless of a child's attitude or abilities, the •Clever •Cid Health & Play program can and does improve focus, concentration and a willingness to learn.
